

ANATHI KESWA

PROFILE

My name's Anathi Keswa, and I'm an aspiring full-stack software developer. I was born in State College, PA, and grew up in Johannesburg, South Africa. My passions are software development, singing and producing music. Growing up I became well acquainted with different kinds of technology, from coding to gadgets, and those experiences left an impression on me. In my free time you can find me working on small dev projects, polishing my coding skills, or making soundtracks. Though they began as casual interests in high school, together they've contributed to my breadth of experience and my capabilities as a developer.
